by the finance committee to the income tax provisions before that part of the bill was reached. The first of the amendments provides that mutual life insurance companies shall not be required to pay an income tax upon the sums repaid to their policy holders as dividends or interest upon the surplus premiums held by such companies. The provision regarding building and loan associations is changed to read as follows: "That nothing herein contained shall apply to loans made by building and loan associations to their shareholders for the purpose of enabling them to provide for themselves homes.' It is also by the amendments made the duty of persons acting as trustees for estates or trusts to render returns upon them when the incomes annually exceed $3,500. Another amendment requires the internal revenue commissioner to prescribe the form of the affirmation or oath required from the president or chief officer of a corporation or company in giving the net proceeds of his company. In the paragraph relating to these returns by corporations there is a change which provides a penalty for refusing to make returns instead of for refusing to pay the penalties, which is evidently the correction of an incongruity in the former print. Another amendment exempts fraternal beneficiary societies, orders or associations operating upon the lodge system, which provide for the payment of life, sick, accident and other benefits to the members of such societies and their dependents, from the operations of the law. An exemption is also made in the case of such saving banks, saving institutions or societies as have no stockholders or members, except depositors, and no capital except deposits; those that shall not receive deposits to an aggregate amount in any one year of more than $1,000 from the same depositor; those that shall not allow an accumulation or total of deposits by any one depositor exceeding $10,000; those that shall actually divide and distribute to their depositors, ratably to deposits, all the earnings over the necessary and proper expenses of such bank, institution or society, except such as shall be applied to surplus; and also those that shall not possess in any form a surplus fund exceeding 10 per cent. of the aggregate deposits.

Whereas, The free-wool menace has reduced the price of wool far below the cost of production, rendering the destruction of wool interests in Texas inevitable, should the threat become a certainty; and, "Whereas, It is also proposed by said bill to open our markets to the free-grass meats of the plains of Mexico and the pampas of South and Central America, threatening with destruction our already crippled live stock industry; and, "Whereas, These parts of the bill will affect most disastrously, not only our sheep and cattle interests, but our land interests as well; now, therefore, be it

GENERAL KELLY HOLDS A PUBLIC MEETING IN NEW ALBANY.

No Attempt to Arrest Him and He Proceeds to Take Up a Collection-Hard Lines for Hoganites.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. NEW ALBANY, Ind., June 20 .- General Kelly's industrial army is camping two miles below this city on the river road, having marched seven miles yesterday from Bridgeport. Hundreds of visitors have visited the camp during the day. To-night Kelly held a public meeting and made a speech, followed by a collection. Kelly does not know when he will rid this city of his presence, as he expects to stay until he is given assistance. He has offered to accept transportation to Madison, but the authorities refuse to stand the expense. Kelly will speak in Louisville to-morrow at the request of a committee of labor union men, and expects to raise sufficient money to buy provisions for the army. People are surprised to find the men peaceable and not disposed to commit acts of lawlessness. The business men are beginning to donate provisions. The Board of Health inspected the men yesterday, but found no cases of infectious disease among them.

While no definite steps have been taken, It is probable that the army will be assisted to Madison, as the New Albany people think that the easiest way of ridding themselves of the burden. Thomas Tarnesley, on whose farm the army was camped, gave them eight rows of potatoes from a field near the roadside. The soldiers of the commonweal dug the esculents, and this simple fare, Kelly said. constituted their supper last evening. The men are well behaved, and are all stalwart young men, there being but two old men in the command. They are divided into thirty-one companies, commanded by the full complement of line officers, three under the command of Kelly is an under-sized man, thirty-two years old, with the quick, nervous action of a born leader, and he certainly has his men under complete control. He was born in Cincinnati, but had lived in the West for many years. A printer by trade, he had, like many others of that craft, engaged in reportorial work many years ago, and had served on the staffs of several leading newspapers of the Pacific coast. In the command, he said, art men from every walk of life. Nearly every man is a member in good standing in some labor organization, while fully one-half the men are members of some one of the leading

When Kelly and his army arrived at Sugar Grove, yesterday afternoon, they found the Sunday school of the East Baptist Church picnicking in the grove. The consternation amounted almost to a panic. Women screamed and fainted and children ran helter-skelter, shouting for protection from the army. The men were on the point of calling a council of war, when Kelly relieved their situation in a striking way. Sitting on his white horse, he struck up "Nearer, My God, to Thee," in which the vanguard of his forces joined. As the strains of the beautiful hymn rolled through the grove the picnickers caught it up, and presently there rose above the tree tops a chorus of Sunday school children, churchly matrons and roving vagabonds. Quiet was restored, the urbane General presented his compliments to the assemblage in a neat speech of apology and explanation, and the army marched on without having begged for so much as a biscuit.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. FRANKFORT, Ind., June 20 .- William R. Davis, aged twenty, and a prominent young man of this city, was probably fatally shot during a fight with a burglar at 3 o'clock this morning. He was sleeping at the home of C. R. Pratt to protect the family in the absence of Mr. Pratt from the city. About daylight he awoke and saw the robber going through his clothes on a chair. Leaping from the bed young Davis clutched the burglar, who drew a revolver and fired two shots, afterwards making his escape, leaving a hat and dark lantern behind. One shot was through Davis's arm and the wound is not serious. but the second bullet entered his abdomen and may prove fatal. Officers shortly afterward arrested a hatless tramp, who gave his name as Michael O'Brien. The man is held on suspicion. O'Brien is from Marion county, Ohio, and is a telegraph operator. Feeling here runs very high against him.

STORM IN NEBRASKA

SEVERE GALE AT OMAHA, LINCOLN AND ELSEWHERE.

One Life Lost and Many Buildings Damaged-Child Killed by a Tornado in South Dakota.

OMAHA, Neb., June 20 .- Between 6:30 and 7 o'clock this evening Omaha was visited by one of the strongest gales experienced in years. The wind came from about two points west of south and blew in gusts for half an hour, attaining, at times, a velocity of nearly forty miles an hour. It was accompanied by dense clouds of dust that obscured the sky until all was dark as midnight. Not a great deal of rain accompanied the storm, but quite a shower fell after it. Much damage of a minor nature was done all over the city. Shade trees and shrubbery were blown down or broken off and in some places traffic was blockaded by trees falling across the street. At Jefferson square, near the center of the city, nearly every tree was blown down. A part of the roof of the Woodman linseed oil works was blown off. The Murray Hotel was partially unroofed. The glass roof of the Bee building was damaged, a portion of the terra cotta ornamental work on the Boyd Opera House was blown off. All the fences and some of the buildings at the Omaha Driving Park were demolished and much similar damage was done all over the city. At Courtland Beach one man was caught in a boat on the lake and drowned. His body has not been recovered and it is not known if the victim is Braden the boat-tender, or O'Brien, his assistant. At the Ames-avenue street-car house, one of the electric wires was blown into a tree and foreman Parish climbed up to disentangle it. He received a fatal shock from the

The most serious reports come from Li coln. It was rumored directly after the blow in Omaha that the capital city had been visited by a tornado. Many reports of buildings destroyed and lives lost were received, and, as telegraphic communication was interrupted for an hour or so, it was impossible to learn the truth. As soon as the Western Union could get a wire working, the Lincoln office reported that the storm there was similar to the one in Omaha-only a severe gale, with no serious damage and no loss of life, as far as could be learned. Passengers who came in on the Burlington train which passed through the storm, report that damage in the country was but slight. From all directions word comes of high wind and light rain. It seems to have been merely a squall at the close of an unusually hot and sultry day.

ECKINGTON HOTEL BURNED. Congresmen and Others Compelled to Make a Hasty Exit.

WASHINGTON, June 20 .- The congressional and other guests of the Eckington Hotel, in the suburbs of the city, were roused from their slumbers about midnight by the cry of fire, and had to make a hasty exit to escape from the flames. The fire started in the kitchen, and within two hours the building was practically a total loss. The hotel was built in the colonial style, being a modern structure, while the main building was formerly the Gale mansion, the country seat of the former proprietors of the old National Intelligencer. The hotel, which was owned by District Commissioner Truesdell, was valued at $50,000, and was well insured. The lessee, W. A. McKellip, loses about $13,000 on furniture, with an insurance of only $3,000. Among the guests were Representatives Dunn, of New Jersey;

CAPTURED THE DOUBLE EVENT AT SHEEPSHEAD BAY.

Results of the Latonia and St. Louis Races-Entries for the Suburban Handicap.

NEW YORK, June 20.-Better weather could not have been desired for the opening day at Sheepshead Bay. The Double event was the hollowest kind of a victory for Keenan. He won from Harry Reed in the last furlong, after The Commoner had bumped him badly as they came out of the chute into the main track. The Commoner was evidently out of sorts, for he refused to make an effort at the end. Ramapo and Sport Now Favorites-

Clifford Not in Form. NEW YORK, June 20.-The Suburban handicap will be run to-morrow. The list of likely starters has dwindled day by day, and to-day there are not ten thoroughbreds that can be named as certain to sport silk in the great race of a mile and a quarter. Disappointment is keen at the prospect that Clifford will not start. The horse seems to have all his speed, but in his last two trials stopped perceptibly after the end of a mile, and unless appearances are deceptive and have been arranged to be deceptive Clifford will hardly be a factor in to-morrow's race, and, in fact, is not likely to start. The field, in the event of the absence of Clifford, Lamplighter and St. Leonards, will be an ordinary one-not as good as that which faced the starter in the Metropolitan handicap, and nothing like that which went to the post for the $20,000 prize in the Brooklyn handicap. Whether Mr. Dwyer will start both Banquet and Don Alonzo is doubtful, but as the field promises to be small he may take a chance and send both to the post, with Simms on Banquet and the best jockey he can obtain on the big son of Longtaw. There was some talk to-day of obtaining the services of Carrison for Don Alonzo. He could just weight on this while if he is engaged to ride Sport The list of starters will come from following: Ajax, 118; Bassett Law, 114; Banquet, 119: Charade, 111; Comanche, 112; Copyright, 105; Don Alonzo, 119; Herald, Henry of Navarre, 108; King Lee, 110; Pick-pocket, 110; Ramapo, 120; Sir Walter, 120;

Sport, 114; Stowaway, 100. With Taral up Ramapa is certain to co to the post a favorite, and it does not look now as though anything could beat him unless Sport, with his lightest weight, should take a notion to do his best, in which case there would be a horse race. Ramapo never looked better than he did in his gallop this morning. Sport looked the picture of health and moved without a false break or a particle of temper. He was then taken on the Brighton Beach track and worked a mile at better than three-quarters speed. King Lee pleased the critics very much in his work. Banquet moved a mile at Gravesend in fine shape with Paul Fox in the saddle. The little giant never moved with better freedom in his life, and he seemed to revel in the heavy going. Charade also did his work at Gravesend, which consisted of several sprints, as he worked twice the circuit of Stowaway worked a mile and a quarter in 2:1014. Those who witnessed it were much impressed with the change of the colt. He moved in a manner that stamps him a good race horse over a distance of ground. Stowaway appears to be a glutton over a distance of ground, although he is a small race horse in size. Henry of Navarre had an easy race yesterday, which should fit him perfectly for the big event to-morrow, and there are many who think him an Al chance for first place

WAR ON THE LORDS

BRITISH LIBERALS MEET AND CON-DEMN THE HOUSE OF PEERS.

Rosebery Requested to Take Steps to Abolish the Veto Power of the Upper House of Parliament.

LEEDS, England, June 20 .- Two thousand delegates were present to-day in Albert Hall when Mr. Spencer Watson called the anti-lords conference to order. The conference was organized by the National Liberal Federation and a committee of that body submitted the following resolutions: "First-That the power now exercised by the House of Lords to mutilate and reject measures passed by the representatives of the present House of Commons has been systematically used to defeat reforms, is inconsistent with the right of free popular self-government, and should cease to exist. Second-That the meeting call upon the government to introduce a measure for the abolition of the Lords' veto power, by providing that whenever a bill passed by the Commons shall be altered or rejected by the Lords the same bill may be reaffirmed by the Commons with or without such alteration, be subject only to the royal assent, and thereupon become law. 'Third-That the meeting assures the government of the resolute support of the party in any steps that may be deemed necessary to enforce the passage of this great constitutional reform.

Contrary to expectations, few of the delegates present were men of note. The most prominent persons on the platform were Chairman Watson, James Henry Dalziel, member of Parliament for the Kirkcaldy district of Scotland; Sir Wilfred Lawson, president of the United Kingdom Alliance for the Suppression of the Liquor Traffic and member of Parliament for the Cockermouth division of Cumberland; Michael Davitt and Henry Labouchere.

During the course of his address at the opening of the conference Mr. Watson said that the present position of affairs was unbearable. The time for action upon the part of the Liberal party had come. There must be a definite policy, because the government itself was endangered. When once the policy of the party towards the House of Lords was formulated there could be neither wavering nor compromise. The battle must be fought out to the end, and the end must be victory. Mr. Watson then moved the first resolution. Secretary Harford, of the Society of Railway Servants, in seconding the resolution condemned the in seconding the resolution, condemned the House of Lords for its attitude in regard to labor questions. After other speeches had been made upon the same subject, Delegate Barnard com-plained that the racing and gambling pro-pensities of the lords had not been mentioned. For the second resolution Mr. Labouchere moved a substitute declaring that the Lords, being useless and dangerous, ought to be abolished, and calling upon the government to introduce a measure for the abolition of the House of Lords.

Mr. Labouchere met with an enthusiastic reception, and during the speech which he made upon his substitute he declared that self-government was a farce so long as hereditary legislators existed. Sir Wilfred Lawson, in seconding Mr. Labouchere's amendment, said that the members of the House of Lords were descended from the greatest set of rascals and reprobates on the face of the earth. "But," Sir Wilfred continued, "their teeth will be drawn and they will be forever left sitting as representatives of mediaeval monstrosity. They are hereditary miscreants and ought to be

Mr. Labouchere's amendment was lost by a large majority. The chairman announced that there were many other amendments proposed, but the meeting decided to vote on the original resolution, which was carried with enthusiasm.

The island in the river Waag upon which the famous and the fine gardens in the vicinity of the baths are covered with a foot of sand The mineral springs are choked. Fifty patients on crutches who have arrived at Pressburg confirm the story that the flood swept down so suddenly that the water was soon knee deep in the rooms of the houses. The patients had to be carried from the tops of the houses. At Komorn 125 small houses fell in. Thirty thousand acres of land bearing crops in splendid condition is now under five feet of water. Within a fortnight the harvest would have commenced. Three hundred soldiers are at work strengthening the dykes, but it is further damage. Britain Knuckles to Germany. PARIS, June 20.-The Temps publishes a dispatch from Berlin declaring that in order to avoid the holding of an international conference which, perforce, would occupy itself with the Egyptian question, Great Britain has conceded the demands made upon her by Germany, and has consented to renounce her claim to the strip of territory between the Congo State and the German sphere of influence in Africa. In exchange for this concession Germany will permit the construction of a land telegraph line, to extend from Cape Colony to the Nile, for which purpose the strip of territory was required by Great Britain.
